High Elf Names

High elf names are formal, polysyllabic, and dripping with inherited grandeur. They favor Latinate or Tolkienesque constructions, names that have been in the family for ten thousand years and sound like it.

1. Galadriel — The Lord of the Rings
   Lady of Light, bearer of Nenya. The gold standard for high elf regality.
2. Elrond — The Lord of the Rings
   Master of Rivendell. His name captures the scholarly, timeless high elf archetype.
3. Fëanor — The Silmarillion
   The greatest and most terrible of the Noldor. Brilliant, proud, and ultimately ruinous.
4. Tyrion — Warhammer Fantasy
   Tyrion — High Elf prince and greatest warrior of Ulthuan. Not the Lannister.
5. Teclis — Warhammer Fantasy
   Twin of Tyrion and the greatest mage alive. High elf intellectual supremacy embodied.
6. Astarion — Baldur's Gate 3
   A high elf spawn of a vampire lord. His name's aristocratic weight suits his heritage.
7. Corellon — D&D Pantheon
   Creator deity of elves. The ultimate high elf name — divine, primordial, and above it all.
8. Celebrimbor — The Silmarillion / Shadow of Mordor
   The elf-smith who forged the Rings of Power. Ambition and craft fused.
9. Gil-galad — The Lord of the Rings
   Last High King of the Noldor. His name means 'star of radiance.'
10. Aelarion — Warhammer / Fantasy Convention
    A high elf name that sounds like a title. Because for high elves, every name is a title.
