Genasi Names

Genasi names blend their mortal parent's culture with elemental influence. Fire genasi lean toward sharp, sibilant sounds; water toward flowing syllables; earth toward heavy, grounded tones; air toward breathy, light names.

1. Ifrit — Arabian Mythology
   A powerful fire spirit from Islamic tradition. The root of countless fire genasi characters.
2. Djinn — Arabian Mythology
   Air spirits bound to lamps and rings. The genasi are literally 'genie-touched' mortals.
3. Marid — Arabian Mythology
   Water genies of immense power. The aquatic elemental tradition runs deep.
4. Dao — D&D / Chinese Philosophy
   Earth genies in D&D. The name also evokes 'the way' — elemental balance.
5. Cinder — Fantasy Convention
   A fire genasi name that's both a noun and a state of being. Evocative and simple.
6. Aang — Avatar: The Last Airbender
   The air-bending Avatar. His gentle power perfectly mirrors air genasi energy.
7. Zuko — Avatar: The Last Airbender
   A fire nation prince whose redemption arc defines character growth. Pure fire genasi.
8. Katara — Avatar: The Last Airbender
   A water-bending master. Her name evokes both water flow and determined strength.
9. Toph — Avatar: The Last Airbender
   The blind earth-bender who invented metal-bending. Earth genasi stubbornness incarnate.
10. Ember — Fantasy Convention
    Fire genasi often take elemental nouns as names — Ember, Blaze, Ash, Scorch.
